TAC messages for World Aids Day

?South Africa is taking responsibility?

Resources for health to meet the National Strategic Plan (2007-2011) targets: towards universal access to treatment now!

South Africa accounts for 17% of global HIV infections.^[1] There are 5.5 million people living with HIV and only 50% (800 000) of those who need antiretroviral therapy have access to it, while an additional 1.5 million people are estimated to currently require antiretroviral therapy. The country plan on HIV aims to treat 80% of those who need treatment and cut new infections by half. The Department of Health (DoH) had anticipated a shortfall of R1.2 billion for the HIV treatment programme for this year. The National Treasury allocated R900 million leaving a gap of R300 million for this year.^[2] We need everyone?s efforts to close the gap, especially the international donor agencies.

President Zuma will be addressing the nation on HIV on the 1st of December 2009. He recently acknowledged that our country?s young population mortality rate has been on the increase for the last decade and this needs to be stopped.^[3] We welcome his leadership on AIDS as this is a sign of political will in this administration to fight the HIV and TB epidemics in South Africa. This level of leadership on AIDS and TB has been absent from government for 15 years.

We also need his leadership in changing men?s attitudes and behaviour against women and girls. A radical approach to stop gender based violence and HIV in South Africa is needed. We all need to commit to achieving universal access to treatment and to put an end to maternal deaths both from violence and HIV. We are however particularly impressed by the sense of urgency to reach our goals for 2009 for treating people living with HIV as outlined in the National Strategic Plan (2007-2011). We stand with the President and are in support of our government delivering on these promises. TAC and its partners in Southern Africa launched the Resources for Health campaign in July 2009 to ensure that universal access to treatment becomes a reality.

The Global Fund has saved an estimated 3.5 million lives in developing countries.^[4] Yet the Global Fund has been unable to obtain donor commitments to fill a growing funding gap, which directly affects countries? capacity to scale-up and sustain HIV/AIDS treatment. The economic crisis cannot be used as an excuse for national governments and the G8 countries not to honour their commitments to fight TB/HIV and Malaria in developing countries.

What can you do?

- It is your responsibility to know our HIV status early, let's all go and take the test.
- Prevent your unborn child from getting HIV ? access PMTCT.
- Women and girls must go out and get screened for cervical cancer.
- Go out and test and treat your TB.
- Do your CD4 count so that you can access antiretroviral treatment.
- Let's all change our sexual behaviours and act responsibly.

I am responsible! We are responsible!
