Here you can find articles about health and HIV in Africa. You too can write articles by registering as a user. We particularly welcome articles about activism, health and HIV in your local community, as well as personal stories. Although the articles and their comments are moderated, they are not necessarily TAC-related articles nor are they necessarily written by TAC members. Opinions and facts expressed in these articles are not those of TAC.

Lancet model for the elimination for HIV

5 May, 2009 - 09:38 ? moderator

 In November 2008, an article was published in the renowned medical journal, the Lancet, that proposed a mathematical model that could virtually eliminate HIV transmission in the future and reduce the number of people developing AIDS by 95%. The article called for universal testing and immediate initiation of ART upon learning one's HIV-positive status. The article sparked heated debate between AIDS activists and organizations.

This week I met two remarkable people , remarkable for me because they've made it so far and just helped put a bit of perspective on my own situation. I've walked away from each encounter with the thought that Yes I can Luckyboy at TAC Germiston, must say a list of 40 things that I want to do seemed like a lot but then I started working on it, although the details are vague but I'm moving away from bewilderment to item no 12 --- going to Egypt. Sometimes you meet people like that and wish ?if only I had known you at the very beginning? still you were probably not the wise old man you are right now --- There?s a saying about having to get through it to get past it, I'm just stepping into it and I can only hope there?ll be people to pull me back when I step into the mire and Nokhwezi sister I hope we do meet, but I do feel silly about letting myself be scared by the stress-bogeyman who has no form or color .

Health Minister and UNAIDS Executive Director visit TAC Khayelitsha, impressed by Khayelitsha health model

12 February, 2009 - 13:29 ? dalton

- HIV/AIDS National Strategic Plan

Minister of Health Barbara Hogan and incoming UNAIDS Executive Director Michel Sidibé paid a visit this week to TAC and MSF in Khayelitsha. Minister Hogan was highly impressed by her visit and has promised to look into Khayelitsha?s successful health model, used to fight against HIV/AIDS, and see if it can be transplanted into other struggling health districts countrywide.

She said the community had shown the world that proper partnerships, patient adherence and treatment literacy were not rhetoric, but could help the government to improve health delivery systems.

Shattered Myths: The xenophobic violence in South Africa

16 June, 2008 - 22:27 ? Nathan Geffen

- Immigrants and Refugees

On Thursday 22 May, Cape Town changed forever. The xenophobic violence that started 1,200 kilometres away in Gauteng spread to Du Noon township. On Friday the TAC offices began to get reports of violence on trains and Somali shops being looted. The details were scanty, but by Friday evening the consequences became visible even in the affluent city centre. About 150 people sought refuge outside Caledon Square, the city's main police station. Hundreds more gathered at the central train station so they could catch a train to Johannesburg in the morning and then leave the country.

WC PSP Metropole meeting

9 March, 2008 - 16:18 ? refaadm

Yesterday on the 7 March'08 we(TAC reps from each sub district in metro) attended the WC NACOSA PSP meeting with some reps from the DOH & ALN.

The meeting was attended by about 80 people which does not represent all the departments, NGOs, sectors and structures within the metro. On Tuesday we had a meeting to strategise around the way they do the meeting and to go their to tell them that this is not consultation and plans should come from districts first before they can make a draft.

JUSTICE SYSTEM FAILING THE VICTIM'S FAMILY

25 February, 2008 - 11:17 ? stax

South Africa has a very progressive and democratic constitution but disturbingly so it's only on paper in reality it's the opposite. The judicial system is failing people of this country badly. It's almost 3 years since Nandipha's death, she was raped and murdered on the 15 December 2005, since her rape and murder the trial of her alleged murderers has still not finished!! How hard is it for the prosecutor to proceed with charging one of the accused who confessed?
